Claims 1-22 are presented for examination.

Applicant's response filed October 20, 2008 has been received and entered.

Claims 2 and 3 are considered to be cancelled since the applicant's amendment to the claims is withdrawn before an examination of the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1, 4 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

This is a written description rejection.

A lack of adequate written description issue arises if the knowledge and level of skill in the art would not permit one skilled in the art to immediately envisage the product claimed from the disclosed process. See, e.g., Fujikawa v. Wattanasin, 93 F.3d 1559, 1571, 39 USPQ2d 1895, 1905 (Fed. Cir. 1996) (a "laundry list" disclosure of every possible moiety does not constitute a written description of every species in a genus because it would not "reasonably lead" those skilled in the art to any particular species); In re Ruschig, 379 F.2d 990, 995, 154 USPQ 118, 123 (CCPA 1967).

An applicant may also show that an invention is complete by disclosure of sufficiently detailed, relevant identifying characteristics which provide evidence that applicant was in possession of the claimed invention, i.e., complete or partial structure, other physical and/or chemical properties, functional characteristics when coupled with a known or disclosed correlation between function and structure, or some combination of such characteristics.

In particular, the specification as original filed fails to provide sufficient written bases of any of the agents demonstrating wherein possession or use of the broad terms: infectious diseases caused by drug-resistant strains of bacteria, bacterial infections in a human or animal host, solvent extraction of a component of a pepper plant. The applicant may have discovered one solvent extraction of a component of a pepper plant to treat an infectious disease caused by Staphylococcus is not sufficient to claim the entire genus of solvents such as water or benzene. The mere fact that Applicant may have discovered one type of infectious disease caused by a drug-resistant strain of a bacteria or one type of bacteria infection in a human or animal host is not sufficient to claim the entire genus.

The written description requirement for a claimed genus may be satisfied through sufficient description of a representative number of species by actual reduction to practice, reduction to drawings, or by disclosure of relevant, identifying characteristics, i.e., structure or other physical and/or chemical properties, by functional characteristics coupled with a known or disclosed correlation between function and structure, or by a combination of such identifying characteristics, sufficient to show the applicant was in possession of the claimed genus. See Eli Lilly, 119 F.3d at 1568, 43 USPQ2d at 1406.

A "representative number of species" means that the species which are adequately described are representative of the entire genus. Thus, when there is substantial variation within the genus, one must describe a sufficient variety of species to reflect the variation within the genus. The disclosure of only one species encompassed within a genus adequately describes a claim directed to that genus only if the disclosure "indicates that the patentee has invented species sufficient to constitute the gen[us]."

The rejection made under 35 USC 112, first paragraph (Written Description) is adhered to.

Claims 1, 4 and 7 are not allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 and 4-22 are again rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1, 4, 5 and 7 are again rendered indefinite by the phrase "or an equivalent". The applicant stated in his response that the phrase "or an equivalent" can be referred to botanical sources as ginger species, and synthetic and artificial analogs and compounds modeled after pepper components. Again, applicant does not show support for all types of pepper containing compounds, synthetic, artificial or nature.

The remaining claims are rendered indefinite to the extent that they incorporate the above terminology.

The rejection made under 35 USC 112, second paragraph is adhered to.

Claims 1 and 4-22 are not allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 4 is again rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yamaguchi et al., Kenkyu Kiyo-Tokyo Kasei Diagaku, Vol. 25, pp. 201-203 (1985) or Dorman et al., Journal of Applied Microbiology, Vol. 88, No. 2, pp. 308-316 (2000), all of record, for reasons of record as set forth in the previous Office action dated June 11, 2008 at pages 5-6 as applied to claim 4.

Again, applicant's remark regarding the prior art does not teach the use of "phytoalexins" which are distinct from piperine and volatile oils of black pepper of the prior art are not persuasive since the prior art teach a product of identical chemical composition cannot have mutually exclusive properties. A chemical composition and its properties are inseparable. If the prior art teaches the identical chemical structure, the properties applicant disclose and/or claims are necessarily present (See In re Spada, 911 F.2d 705, 709, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1659 (fed. Cir. 1990)).

The rejection made under 35 USC 102(d) is adhered to.

Claim 4 is not allowed.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
